5. Vietnam - Six Senses Con Dao

We love the way Six Senses properties indulge guests in luxury right in the lap of nature! Con Dao is a breathtaking location too and has been protected for decades as a national and marine park. The Six Senses Con Dao, takes all that this archipelago has to offer and adds private villas with infinity pools and unobstructed water views to wow guests from all corners of the world. Go from May to October and you'll see turtles nesting and their eggs hatching! Quick domestic round-trip flights between Ho Chi Minh City and Six Senses Con Dao, make it easily accessible too!

6. Myanmar - The Strand, Yangon

Literature buffs? How about walking down the alleys of a hotel that hosted George Orwell and Somerset Maugham? Stay at one of Yangon's most luxurious hotels that was originally built in 1901 and has hosted a number of literary and social personalities over the years. Victorian-style architecture and furniture welcome you to this original Sarkies building on the banks of the Yangon river. Burmese teakwood floors accompanied with high ceilings and lofty fans are sure to take you back in time. Don't forget to carry a great book!

7. Singapore - The Capella

One of Singapore's treasures the sophistication of Capella's colonial building matches its lush green rainforest settings like none other. Perched atop Sentosa, the hotel's two historic bungalows (Tanah Merah) used to house British Officers of the Royal Artillery, Coastal Defence Command. Now a genuinely gracious medley of the new and the old, you'll often see it serve as a popular wedding venue. Need some peace and quiet? Take in the wonderful setting of this hotel. And if it's partying at Singapore's famous social scene you are after – it's simply a cab ride away!

8. Cambodia - Belmond La Résidence d'Angkor, Siem Reap

If you promised your better half a honeymoon in Siem Reap, it doesn't have to be sans luxury! A few minutes away from the temple complexes, the Belmond is one of the first luxury hotels to have opened in Siem Reap. A salt-water pool welcomes you after your day of sightseeing or there's always the Kong Kea Spa to take you through traditional massage treatments. This leafy retreat near Angkor Wat will give you an authentic Cambodian experience but with all the sparkle of a luxe getaway included.

9. Laos - Amantaka, Luang Prabang

We don't really have to sell you an Aman property. Expensive but gloriously luxurious, if it's a once in a lifetime splurge you are after - don't look any further! Located in the gorgeous lands of Luang Prabang, and surrounded by Buddhist temples, nature and Laotian life, it's a great way of taking in the culture and beauty this country has to offer. Colonial-style furnishing, high wooden ceilings and backed by Aman spa's signature chemical-free products; this is how you do Laos in style!
